TO FOOL MATT QUAY

And to Get Even With the Liquor Men, Crawford County - Democrats Propose to

VOTE FOR THE AMENDMENT

Beaver, Butler, Crawford, Lawrence and Mercer Counties Are All

IN LINE TO FIGHT FOR PROHIBITION.

The Western Border Nearly Solid for the Amendment-Bringing Out the Farm Vote-Effect of the Supreme Court Decision on the Municipal Act-Making Votes for Prohibition-Butler County Soup Miners Unite for Temperance Regardless of Party Politics-Guessing at the Votes of Three Distinguished

The western border is solid for Constitutional amendment, with the exception of Erie county. Our special commissioner continued his researches through Crawtord, Mercer, Lawrence, Butler and Beaver counties. They will each give majorities of from 1,000 to 2,500 for prohibition. The effect of the fall of the municipal classifiention act on the temperance agitation is pointed out in one of the interviews.

[FROM OUR SPECIAL COMMISSIONER.] MEADVILLE, February 21 .- Pennsylvaletter yesterday. But, as also stated then, some people hope to find temperance timber plenty enough to rebuild the Erie section of the fence in June. It may be a hard task, however. At the other end, Greene and Washington counties use a sort of barbed-wire fencing, and appended is the result of an examination of the post-holes and pickets located in Crawford, Mercer, Lawrence, Butler and Beaver counties.

In all that large extent of country from Conneaut Lake down to the Ohio river, and from Neshannock creek across to the sources of the Connoquenessing, the liquor interests have not the ghost of a chance for winning the June campaign. The aggregate of votes for Constitutional amendment that will go down from this region to the threshold of down from this region to the threshold of Allegheny county will have much to do with toning down the opposite influence of Pittsburg and Allegheny in the sum total of Western Pennsylvania's work. Yet there is one danger for the temperance leadwith toning down the opposite influence of there is one danger for the temperance leaders in the territory described, viz:

A BIG FARM VOTE.

The bulk of the votes Prohibitionists are relying upon are from the farmers, and as they, with their farms practically adjoining those of Ohio, are ambitious in their harvesting, June 18 will find them almost too busy to take half a day off to go to the polls. I found this fear in every border county-not that it might lose the fight for prohibition, but that unless organization was thoroughly advanced so as to arouse the farmers and get a full vote, the aggregate of majorities would not count for so much as anticipated in swelling the total vote of the State at large. However, movements are now on foot to that end in every one of the counties,

The amendment may find all over the State a new source of friendship, according to the opinion of ex-State Senator Homer J. Humes, of Meadville. The Senator is one of the best-known Democrats in Pennsylvania. He said to me:

Many votes will be given the amendment, not only here but all over the State, by liquor men only here but all over the State, by liquor men themselves as a result of the recent Supreme Couri decision declaring the municipal act unconstitutional. Based upon legislation of that class the Brooks law graded liquor licenses for seven classes of cities. Now that the municipal act is no good, the Wallace act, dividing cities simply into three classes, remains in force. Therefore, liquor dealers in all the small cities, such as Mcadville, Titusville and Johnstown, will have to pay $500 for a license instead of $150. The result is the poerer dealers will have to go out of the business, leaving it in the hands of capitalists. Those driven out will deliberately vote for the abolition of all licenses to get even for the good fortune of licenses to get even for the good fortune of county's intentions, Mr. Hume, said: I believe Crawford county will give a majority of 1,000, and possibly 1,500, for the amendment. Meadville will be close, with chances in favor of a temperance victory, Titusville will probably vote against it, but the townships and peroughs are strongly in favor of it. The cam paign for the amendment is being managed by the Republicans, although a few Democrats are the Republicans, although a few Democrats are put on the committees.

But it cannot be denied that the Democratic voters here, as elsewhere, feel that Matt Quay put this question through the Legislature to get temperance votes for the Republican party; that he also got money from the State Liquor League to help elect Harrison, and led them to rest contented that the Democratic party would kill the amendment at the popular election. Now, many Democrats propose, not only to fool Mr. Quay, but to retalinte upon the liquor ring which has continually played into the hands of the Republicans when we added planks to our platforms, year after year, against sumptuary legislation as a part of our fundamental principles, and thus offered them protection.

Joseph L. Shippen, Esq., a leading Re-publican attorney, and one of the leaders of the amendment movement here, explained to me that a purely non-partisan organization had been formed, which held a county convention, sent delegates to Harrisburg, and will canvass every nook and corner of the county. He expects 1,500 majority for the amendment in the county, although predicting that both Titusville and Meadville will yote for license, and Meadville is the seat of Allegheny College.

Meadville has about 12,000 population and Titusville about 11,000. The county adopted local option by 560 majority in 1873, when Meadville voted for it and Tituswille against. The county has only 54 li-

MERCER COUNTY SURE.

The recent experience of a prominent Pittsburg druggist in shipping liquor to Mercer is a fair example of the strong tem-perance sentiment prevailing in that county. The number of licenses there have not exceeded a dozen for two or three years now, the late rulings of the courts having been given in the telegraphic news of THE DIS-PATCH. The largest towns in the county are Mercer, Sharon, Greenville, Sharpsville and West Middlesex.

Local option was adopted in Mercer county by 943 majority, but since then the prohibition sentiment throughout the county has grown surprisingly, manifesting itself in various ways. Only once, however, did it waver, and that was six or seven years ago when two Legislative candidates pledged to support a prohibitory amendment were deteated. But that is no criterion, for one of Mercer's present members in Assembly, Hon. Henry Hall, was chairman of the Republican caucus which decided to submit the question to a popular vote this summer. He and his colleagues are supporters of the measure. The estimates of Mercer county people of their majority for the amendment range from 2,000 to 3,000. LAWRENCE COUNTY'S MITE.

Lawrence county has only about 28

licensed bars, and in 1873 voted for local option by 1,577 majority. Probably basing their guesses on this last fact, and computing a probable heavy gain in temperance sentiment in 15 years, W. H. Falls, Esc., J. U. Emery, F. J. Alford and others in recently published interviews predicted the adeption of the amendment in Lawrence county by from 2,500 to 3,000 majority.

C. H. Akens, Esq., Chairman of the Democratic County Committee, however, differs from this high estimate. When I met him in New Castle he said to me:

This county will vote for prohibition, but met him in New Castle he said to me:

This county will vote for prohibition, but with only 1,000 majority, or possibly 1,500, but no more than that. In a total vote of about 6,500 it is asking too much to expect 3,000 majority for the issue. The sentiment in the county for prohibition is strong especially in the northern section, around Slippery Rock and North Beaver townships. New Castle will probably be close. There are many Swedes and Italians working in the ore and lime quarries throughout the county, but very few of them have a vote. There is quite a large settlement of German farmers in the neighborhood of Wurtemburg, on the Connoquenessing, but while many of them probably like their beer, it is a noteworthy fact that the proprietor of the botel there stopped, of his own accord, seven or eight years ago applying for license. It will all depend on how well the farmers votes are canvassed in this campaign.

BUTLIER'S PROHIBITION VOTE.

BUTLER'S PROHIBITION VOTE. Butler county will vote for the amend-ment without doubt, if politics are kept far in the background. Third party prohibi-tionists must lay low, Republican must walk arm in arm with Democrat, and Greenbackers should embrace all three at the same time, in order to make the issue a success up among the soap mines.

In other words, if license or no license is

In other words, if license or no license is voted on purely on the merits of the question, no license will come off victorious. Ex-Sheriff Kelley, Alonzo Shiras and Thomas Meehling told newspaper correspondents lately that they believed the majority for prohibition in Butler county would run from 700 to 1,500. W. C. Findley, Chairman of the Republican County Committee, fixed it as high as 2,500. All admitted that as many Democrats as All admitted that as many Democrats as Republicans are in favor of the issue, and that it should be allowed to remain on non-partisan grounds in Butler.

The county adopted local option in 1873 by 1,141 majority. The refusal of all liquor licenses by the President Judge of the But-ler County Court a few years before the enactment of the Brooks law created considerable sensation at the time, but since then nia's western border is fenced in by at least six solid prohibition counties. The only spot where the rails have been knocked down is in Eric county, as explained in my

PROSPECTS IN BEAVER, The county in which National Chairman Matt Quay, ex-Chief Justice Daniel Agnew and President Jacob Henrici, of the Economites' Society, cast their votes, will be arrayed on the side of the Constitutional amendment. Whether all three of the distinguished gentlemen named will aid in making the array is not known by the pub-lic. The ex-Chief Justice will vote for it sure. He was one of the first Presidents of the Constitutional Amendment Association of Pennsylvania, and is now enthusiastic in his work for the success of the campaign. Much curiosity is shown in regard to which lature to adopt the submission resolution but he has told no one yet how he will vote not take much interest in politics, only casting a full vote at Presidental elections This campaign, however, may be regarded by them as more important than politica

Beaver county adopted local option in 1873 with 1,230 majority. The number of her licensed bars in recent years has been very limited, and with a strong prohibition feeling in townships, boroughs and the town of Beaver, which is a college town, the county's majority for the amendment is variously estimated at from 1,000 to 1,800. Beaver Falls, being a manufacturing town will be closer than any other part of the Four large floors chock full of pianos and organs at Kleber Bros.', and on each floor customers and salesmen playing and singing and talking from morn till night. Such is the picture presented at Kleber Bros.' store, 506 Wood street, the musical headquarters of our two cities, and where congregate all the musical celebrities of Europe and America. Any instrument coming from Klebers' store, be it a Steinway, Conover, Gabler or Opera pisno is necessical as good and re-Opera piano, is accepted as good and re-liable, for the opinion of Mr. Kleber is looked upon as final and conclusive. Hundreds of people have made the remark, "Oh, I wish I had called on you first and bought an instrument of you," and then they beg the Klebers to take the piano or organ which they bought elsewhere off their hands and exchange for the superior ones at the latter place. Klebers' prices are $25 to $50 lower than those of other dealers, and their terms of payment are easier. The Henrietta Satines-Finer Cloth You Never Saw

OUR CARPET REMNANTS will be offered this week at prices that will be a regular picaic to buyers. We must have the room they occupy. So you can depend on it that no reasonable offer for the remnants will be refused. Remember when we make the assertion that we have the largest line of Bedroom Suits in the city we mean every word that we say, and can prove the same if you take the trouble to look us up.

OUR PARLOR SUITS are away above the average of goods generally shown in this city. They are our own make of goods and we are just proud enough of them to keep up the good credit they have established. Call and see our line of Parlor Suits if you contemplate buying. You will save money. There is nothing that pertains to the proper furnishing of a house but we keep in stock.
